Winter Carnival Called Off

Jack Skinner, chairman of the Warren Field and Stream Club, sponsored winter carnival scheduled for this weekend at Chapman Dam State Park, announced Thursday he had cancelled the event because of lack of snow and ice.

Skinner told the TMO that the snow base was gone, prohibiting such events as the snowmobile races, and that fishing through the ice would be impossible even if it turned colder.

The chairman said the ski-doo would be given away as announced on Sunday, February 11, and that the snowmobile rally would be scheduled later in the season, weather permitting.

Freak Storm Hits South

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Snow fell in such unlikely places as central Florida and south Georgia Thursday prompting the Weather Bureau to caution motorists to keep their eyes on the road and not the scenery. Although the weather was normal for most of the South, snow flurries drifted over Lakeland and Orlando, Fla., and across south Georgia extending to the coast.

The 3.5 inches at Savannah was the heaviest there since the Weather Bureau began keeping records in the 1870s. There were reports of accumulations of four inches at Savannah Beach and other coastal areas.

Snow also was reported along a portion of the South Carolina coast.

In Atlanta, mass confusion resulted from a thin layer of ice and an accumulation of about two inches of snow. Traffic was snarled throughout the city.

Light snow fell in Lakeland, Leesburg, Sanford, Orlando and other points in central Florida. With it came subfreezing weather that could cause millions of dollars damage to the state's citrus and vegetable crops.

The temperature at Miami beach dropped to 51 degrees.

Must Be Some Use For It

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP) — McKean County received a $21,375 federal grant Thursday. Nobody knew what to do with it.

The county commissioners didn't know.

The Bradford Redevelopment Authority, which goes by the acronym BRA, didn't know. Officials at City Hall didn't know.

The local newspaper, The Bradford Era, said it received a telegram from Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., saying the county had been awarded a Housing and Urban Development grant for a countywide census study under the Urban Planning Assistance Program.

But even though officials couldn't tell the newspaper what the money was for, they did know how many people lived in the county—54,517.

day from Barry R. Epstein, executive vice president of the Warren Area Chamber of Commerce.

The development will feature 16 to 18 two-bedroom units, with the possibility of some three-bedroom suites in a town-house design. Twelve to 14 one-bedroom apartment units will feature separate entrances, with no central halls, for individual living. The middle income proposal will also have air conditioning as an optional feature in the Town House duplexes.

The two-acre site in Warren Borough is at the head of Frank street, off of Conewango avenue and will require a zoning change from R1 to R3 to permit construction which will relieve a portion of the critical housing shortage in the area.

A local firm, Glade Land Inc. of Warren, is the developer and Garrison-Wolfe Agency will be exclusive rental agents.

The estimated cost of the project will be $410,000 including land and improvements. The site is now under land planning to determine the most feasible layout in relation to the parcel. It is hoped that rentals can be negotiated by the end of 1968.

County Still Seeking Planning Director

The Warren County Commissioners Thursday discussed the current situation regarding the appointment of a planning director for the county.

The commissioners met Tuesday morning with members of the planning commission to review progress to date on selection of a qualified person to replace Robert Peterson, who leaves the end of February to accept a new post in New York State.

Chairman Dr. David K. Rice said the planning commission had screened and interviewed one applicant but still had one other man to interview. Rice stated he hoped the matter might be settled by next week after the commissioners also have an opportunity to review the qualifications of the man recommended by planners.

Development Workshop Draws Local Interest

Some thirty-five interested persons attended the land development work shop held at the Warren Area High School last night which was sponsored by the Penn State Cooperative Extension Service and the Warren County Cooperative Extension Service. Last night's session was the first of three to be held to encourage private developers in the county's expanding recreational economy.

Speaking at the meeting were Lee Kelley, supervisor of the Allegheny National Forest; Bob Peterson, county planner; Al Osborne, Franklin office of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways; and John Lupis, engineer, Allegheny National Forest.

Kelley related his talk to the role the Allegheny National Forest expects to play in the overall recreational development. He explained that his agency was most interested in developing all facets of the federal lands on a multiple use principle only and that many areas of investment would be left open to the private developer.

He said, however, that development of federal areas would undoubtedly be retarded by present international and internal affairs so the private investor now has an opportunity to move into the field without competition in the immediate future. He illustrated what was being done at the Kinua Dam through the efforts of his staff with a showing of colored slides.

Peterson outlined the proposals his office is currently discussing with the highway department and outlined the road system considered by him to be the best suited to county needs over the next few years.

Osborne supplemented the material offered by Peterson and

Johnson Seeks $3 Billion Foreign Aid Authorization

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked a reluctant Congress Thursday for $3 billion in new foreign aid funds, including $100 million immediately to strengthen South Korea's defense against the Communist North.

Johnson's special Korean arms plea was about the only surprise in a foreign aid message which sought $2.9 billion for the global program next fiscal year—$2.5 billion in economic assistance and $420 million in military.

The President declared the worldwide aid effort is "as important and as essential to the security of this nation as our military defenses." He contended that fighting hunger, disease and illiteracy among the masses in underdeveloped lands curbs the causes of wars.

But administration officials freely acknowledged omens of trouble again in Congress, which last year whacked nearly $1 billion from Johnson's $3.2-billion request. His new program is about $750 million more than was voted for the current fiscal year ending June 30.

In the new package Johnson earmarked $480 million in economic assistance to fight "the other war" in South Vietnam. However, there was a hint amid concern over the recent Communist assaults on Vietnamese cities and the Korean crisis that the President may seek more foreign aid later.

"Developments around the world are changing rapidly from day to day," White House assistant Joseph A. Califano Jr. told newsmen. "In light of this it may be necessary to request additional funds for Vietnam, Korea and other places."

South Korean anxiety about U.S. policy has mounted near fever pitch in recent days. Seoul officials have complained that Washington seems more interested in recovering the captured U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo and its crew from North Korea than in mounting North Korean intrusions into the South.

Saying that "the internal peace and order of this steadfast ally is once again threatened from the North," Johnson proposed "that Congress appropriate immediately an additional $100 million for military assistance to the Republic of Korea."

The funds, to come out of current-year appropriations, would be in addition to the present annual level of $150-$160 million in American arms aid to South Korea.

The additional money would be spent on airplanes, anti-aircraft gear, naval radar, patrol craft, ammunition and other supplies.

At the same time, Johnson indicated U.S. economic assistance to South Korea will be cut back in future years as the Asian ally becomes more able to sustain itself. He noted the Korean economy has grown 10 per cent a year for the last three years.

South Viet Govt. Allots $5.08 Million to NRC

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government has allotted $5.08 million to its National Recovery Committee to repair some of the damage wrought by the current Communist offensive. This means a disruption in the government's shaky plans to win over the nation's 17 million people.

Part of the money will come from the U.S. government. But most of it will have to come from a paring down of current South Vietnamese programs such as the all-important pacification effort, U.S. officials say. They point out that the U.S. aid program already is stretched to the limit.

The new program's financing represents about 25 per cent of planned nonmilitary expenditures by the government in 1968. The Communist offensive, which began Jan. 30, has brought major destruction to scores of South Vietnamese cities and towns, meaning a drop in 1968 of expected tax income and a further strain on the government's programs.

The National Recovery Committee, formed a few days after the Communist attacks began, is headed by Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky. It has held daily meetings and its plans still are incomplete.

Basically, however, it plans to strike first at the refugee problem. The fighting has added 300,000 refugees to the 700,000 already living in temporary refugee camps around the country. About half of the 300,000, however, are expected to move back into their own homes as soon as the fighting ends.

A government spokesman said architects already are at work mapping out plans to rebuild the most heavily damaged cities, including the elimination of slums. Government officials claim all the affected cities already have been photographed from the air to give the architects information with which to work.

North Vietnamese Troops Meet Furious Counterattack

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops, in possible prelude to a long-awaited northwest offensive, slashed through barbed-wire defenses near Khe Sanh on Thursday and wrested half a scarred hilltop from U.S. Marines before being driven back.

A furious counterattack by the Leathernecks with heavy air and artillery support cost the enemy 124 dead, the U.S. Command reported. Marine losses were 21 dead and 27 wounded in the fight, about two miles from the Khe Sanh combat base in South Vietnam's northwest corner, where the allies expect a big push from two enemy divisions.

Elsewhere, the Communist offensive against the cities appeared to be in its last stages after posting a week of record casualties. Street fighting persisted, however, in Saigon, Hue, Dalat and Cao Lanh.

The U.S. Command said another day in the current Red campaign had brought 2,000 more enemy dead, it reported that the Communist death toll had reached 26,621 in 10 days since the countrywide fighting began.

The allied toll since Jan. 30 was put at 2,295 dead, including 810 Americans, 1,434 South Vietnamese and 51 other allies. It listed 9,339 allied wounded, 4,995 of them Americans.

Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from Khe Sanh that the North Vietnamese pummeled the dug-in Marines with mortar and rocket fire in paving the way for the uphill attack. One enemy soldier was captured.

The hill is one of three Marine-controlled high points along a ridge that overlooks the combat base from the northwest. With the fall of the Special Forces camp at Lang Vei on Wednesday, Khe Sanh now poses the only major block to massing North Vietnamese. The enemy are expected to cut into the northern provinces of South Vietnam from Laos.

In Hue, the old imperial capital 40 miles northwest of Da Nang, U.S. Marines and Vietnamese troops battled on, block to block, to oust North Vietnamese who still controlled large portions of the city.

In air action Thursday, Air Force F4 phantoms attacked Phuc Yen airfield 18 miles northwest of Hanoi. Navy A6 Intruders pounded another air base five miles north of Vinh. Other Air Force jets raided an army barracks 43 miles west of Hanoi. Heavy monsoon over-casts precluded damage assessments.

The claimed 10-day Communist death toll represented well over one-third of the estimated 60,000 troops the enemy threw into its coordinated assault against 35 cities in the South. If accurate, the combined casualty figures mean the allies were killing the enemy at a ratio of 11.6 to 1.

Members of the Bradford Regional Airport Authority met for the first time Thursday in Warren with the new board of Warren County Commissioners. The session at Three Flags Inn was called chiefly to acquaint those new to the authority and commissioners of what has transpired to date on expansion of the Mt. Alto airport. January. The county solicitor has ruled the transfer of the deed illegal under terms of the Rouse will and subsequent legislation governing the Rouse House.

Dr. Rice said Thursday that the commissioners anticipate working out some other arrangements regarding the property that will benefit all concerned in housing for the aged.

The chairman explained that terms of members of Warren Housing, Inc. expire the middle of February with one member yet to be contacted to determine if he will serve a second term. The commissioners will reappoint a board to follow through with action already started, Rice stated.

Rice and Commissioner Thomas Donnelly were in Harrisburg Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday to personally contact both George Kuchta, assistant director, Office of Special and General Hospitals and Elias Cohen, commissioner, Office for the Aged.

They talked to Kuchta in regard to supplemental Hill-Harris funds for the Rouse Home to remodel an existing structure. Application for such funding must be made by April 30 to be eligible for one-third government funds.

Cohen was asked to compile all information pertinent to a Medicare program at the Rouse Home to be forwarded to the Commissioners of the Rouse Estate for review and study.

It was announced Thursday the commissioners will be investigating and taking action on all mortgages held in arrears by Commissioners of the Rouse Estate, Trustees of the Hoffman Home, Hughes Fund and the Warren County Retirement Fund. The commissioners said they and the county auditors were concerned over some of these mortgages.

Dr. Rice was unanimously appointed to the Board of the Warren - Forest County Economic Opportunity Council, Inc. and Donnelly officially named to the Board of Mental Health and Retardation.

Workshop

detailed highway developments in surrounding counties that would have some bearing on the future traffic pattern of county roads. His most questioned point was that the Scandora road would not be resurfaced until studies had been made, possibly being put into construction in two or three years. Until then only patch work is to be done by the local highway crews.

John Lupis, the last of the speakers, outlined the recreational projects now under construction at the dam and explained the type of road construction being employed on "forest" roads.

The next meeting of the workshop is scheduled for Wednesday, February 14, and the last of the series scheduled for February 21.

Starbrick residents, in a meeting with Assemblyman William Allen Thursday night at the Coneywango Township building proposed an alternate course of action to be taken in the present planned program to widen into four lanes the three-lane Route 6 highway through Starbrick.

A group of more than 75 Starbrick residents voted, with one dissenting vote, in favor of a divided highway, with turn-out areas designated for left turns. The group proposed two lanes off the existing three-lane highway be used for west-bound traffic and the two east-bound lanes be located on right-of-way belonging to the New York Central Railroad, with a center lane being made a "no-pass-zone" similar to the three-lane highway in North Warren.

Starbrick residents have voiced opposition to the "jughandle" turn-offs and the 30-foot safety zone, a recovery area on each side of the highway, required by both federal and state highway programs as a safety factor.

Assemblyman Allen stated the proposals made at Thursday's meeting will be forwarded to Harrisburg for further action. A decision as to whether the state will allow a variance in the present plans will have to come from Harrisburg, since the highway program and the section in question is entirely under state sponsorship.

Wallace Announces Candidacy

WASHINGTON (AP)—George C. Wallace formally unveiled his third party candidacy for president Thursday, saying he offers the voters "a real choice."

"I fully think we can win," he said.

The 46-year-old former Alabama governor told reporters he stands for an end to lawlessness, against federal interference with the states and with the free enterprise system, and favors a tough foreign policy including winning allied support for the U.S. effort in Vietnam.

Declaring his candidacy is irrevocable and will not be withdrawn as it was four years ago, Wallace said he is running to fulfill a pledge to Alabama voters because "I don't think there is going to be 10 cents worth of difference" between President Johnson and the Republican nominee.

"Even if we lost, we'd be no worse off," he said. "We have all to gain and nothing to lose. I fully think we can win in the Electoral College."

Asked which party he thinks he will hurt most, Wallace said in the South he will hurt the Republicans by splitting opposition to the Johnson administration.

But in the country as a whole, he said "the great mass of support that supports us have been those who have traditionally supported the Democratic party."

Wallace said he will run as a Democrat only in Alabama and will appear as an independent candidate on as many other ballots as possible.

His American Independent Party has already won a place on California's ballot. Aides said it is likely Wallace will be on all ballots except in Ohio, where 433,000 signatures are required, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said "I think it will help the Democrats."

Three Major RRs Conduct Restricted Operations

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Three major railroads conducted restricted operations under strike conditions Thursday as a federal court restraining order prevented the walkout from spreading to a fourth road, the Union Pacific.

U. S. District Judge Robert Van Felt at Lincoln, Neb., temporarily restrained the Union Pacific from reducing the size of its freight train crews, a step it had ordered Tuesday.

An attorney for the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen had told the court that if the railroad was not restrained the union would have no choice but to withdraw its members from work.

Judge Van Felt also ordered the Brotherhood not to strike until good faith negotiations on the issues had taken place.

Already struck over the dispute on the size of freight train crews are the Missouri Pacific Lines, its subsidiary the Texas & Pacific, and the Seaboard Coast Lines. The Pacific lines operate from the Mississippi River west through Colorado and Texas, and from Omaha, Kansas City and St. Louis south to the Gulf of Mexico and the Rio Grande. Seaboard operates from Washington to Miami, Fla., with some branches extending inland to Atlanta, Birmingham and Montgomery.

How Will They Vote?

Of the nearly 7 million who enrolled in colleges last fall, more than 70 per cent are under 21 years of age, and thus will not be eligible to vote in the presidential election in November. How politically mature are these students and how representative of their beliefs have been the militant demonstrations staged on campuses all over the country.

New light may be thrown on the political attitudes of college students in the unusual straw vote that is to be held on college campuses throughout the country in April under the sponsorship of Time magazine. This straw vote has been called CHOICE 68, and the vote will take place on some 2,400 campuses. It is expected that over 5 million students will cast ballots. The only test of voting eligibility will be enrollment in a college or university.

There is no doubt that this event will give professional politicians some food for thought and may very well, for good or ill, have a bearing on policies and measures advocated by many present officeholders who must reckon with the college students who will soon become legal voters. CHOICE 68 may not elect a candidate officially, but unofficially, it will carry a lot of weight and should not be approached lightly by participating students.

Corner That Turns and Turns

WASHINGTON—The Viet Cong offensive had scarcely begun last week when administration officials here announced that the enemy had taken a fierce beating. Though reports of the fighting were skimpy, detailed casualty counts were issued numbering the opposition dead at proportions running to 10 to 13 times the casualties of the allied side.

Many persons have undoubtedly wondered how the administration was able to issue such rosy assessments so early in the battle. The explanation lies in the round-the-clock news-watching operation maintained by the office of optimistic prognosis, or OOP as it is more widely called.

As its name suggests, OOP's mission is to win the war in the press and to keep it won there until the American military can figure out how to do it in Vietnam. "Thanks to our high-speed communications tie-in with Saigon, we can issue reports of a highly favorable kill ratio within minutes of the start of a military engagement anywhere in Vietnam," OOP's director, Jason O'Mason, explained the other day.

O'Mason's zealous prosecution of the war has sometimes put him in difficulty with his superiors. The White House itself recently ordered him to cut back on the enemy "body-count" statistics that have been flowing to the press.

added all the "body-count" figures issued by OOP since early 1965 and discovered that they totaled nearly three times the population of both Vietnams. A sharp memo was rocketed to O'Mason's desk. "You're placing the President in danger of having to explain why, since we have already killed everybody in Vietnam three times, we still need an army there," it said.

Characteristically, OOP was fully prepared for last week's Viet Cong offensive. Within seven minutes of the first attacks in Saigon, the agency had issued one of its standard form announcements stating, "we were fully prepared for it."

Then, as independent news reports began suggesting that the preparations had actually been something less than full, OOP countered with the announcement that the attack proved the attackers were desperate.

Since its earlier announcements had declared that the opposition was incapable of mounting an attack on this scale, OOP pointed out, the decision to attack anyhow simply proved that its case was hopeless.

Nothing infuriates O'Mason more than the occasional accusation that his rosy assessments have no basis in fact. The truth is that they are based on the famous "captured documents," with which every reader of the war news is familiar. Beaten though he is, the enemy nevertheless spends a good deal of energy producing documents to be left lying around places the allied side is about to capture.

These documents, upon being captured, are shipped to Washington where OOP's big staff of expert optimists interprets them to mean that the enemy's morale is cracking, its strength broken, and its strategy in ruin. OOP then issues one of its periodic "C.D.R." reports, as they are called at the agency. "C.D.R." stands for "Captured Documents Reveal," which is the way these reports invariably begin. What "Captured Documents Reveal," of course, is always that "the United States has finally turned the corner in Vietnam."

We are all familiar, of course, with "turning the corner." The idea of creating a corner to turn was O'Mason's own. In 1965 he had a huge corner built in Washington and shipped to Saigon. There it was erected in a large room inside the American Embassy.

"People like to turn corners," O'Mason explained the other day. "The concept suggests change, progress, going places. When we have long periods when nothing seems to be changing or progressing in Vietnam, we cable Saigon instructions to turn the corner, and they turn it on a set of cheap swivel casters that we had installed for a song."

Lately there has been some grumbling from U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker about OOP's turnable corner. It has been turned so many times, he complained in a recent cable to the State Department, that the rollers have worn a huge unsightly rut in the embassy floor. OOP is extremely unhappy about the ambassador's complaint. "We consider it very bad policy," O'Mason said the other day, "to have the word 'rut' associated with anything American in Vietnam."

JIM BISHOP

Stop Being Neutral

Everybody talks about crime. This year it's in. The country is on the take. The credo is: do it to them before they do it to you. Steal, legally if you can; illegally if you must. Hurt a stranger. It makes you feel big. Kill, but only if you cannot assuage your hostility in any other way. Cover your tracks. Commandments number one to ten are "Do not get caught." The policeman is now the defendant. You don't have to prove a thing. He does. He is chained by court decisions involving search and seizure, apprehension, interrogation and confessions. Clam up. If you have a good lawyer, you may be able to get the cop suspended.

He's a dropout averaging $6,000 a year. He's a skinhead riding a slow purl car to nowhere: eight to four, four to twelve, twelve to eight. His pants shine. His eyes squint. He owes bills. Sometimes, he is on the take himself and he wonders if an extra $20 bill is worth a couple of little dresses or two pairs of shoes or one code of honor.

The hophead scares the cop because a pill or a powder brings its own courage. A youth with a gun is taller than Marshal Dillon and twice as fast. When he is caught, he becomes a little boy again, misguided, misunderstood, unloved, unwanted, insane, not responsible. No one ever got an affidavit from a dead policeman. A headstone cannot testify.

The graph chart of American population is a rising slope. The crime chart is a hawksaw with big teeth. It is unsafe for an American to walk alone after dark. Robbery, by itself, is no longer attractive. It must be accompanied by bedroom rape, or a threat to dump gasoline and a match into a basin. The little extras make the difference.

The new criminal is youthful, with long unswept hair, no fingernails, a lean lipless face, jeans with a comb in the hip pocket, contempt for his parents and a convulsive nervousness which he does not understand. He is doubly dangerous because he is beset by nameless fears and becomes superman only when he works in concert with a gang, or when he swallows enough bravery pills.

There are more white criminals than colored, but there are more colored per capita than white. The fall from home to prison isn't far for the Negro malcontent. Free, he's a loser. In jail he's an equal. Doing time can be like getting a gold star.

Crime has two attractions: it makes the lawless smarter than the law; it brings bread without labor. The excitement is frenzied because every caper is a new test. A punk is a wayward student who never gets a passing grade. He flunks breaking and entering; armed robbery; hoisting a monkey; pushing grass; ganging a cop; abusing a girl.

He must always negotiate a bigger time because it is the only way he can erase his failures. Give him sufficient time and he will blast his way across three states in a stolen car, murdering entire families and surrendering from behind a woman who cannot hear him sob.

This is an age of disenchantment. Children despise their parents who buy them daily. Parents resent the child who requires affection and attention. It's a busy world. Toss the kid a windup toy and let's get the hell out of here. Twenty years later, it is: toss mom a kiss and let's crack a filling station.

What can you do? Lots. If there is still time, discipline your children until they learn to discipline themselves. This makes responsible citizens. Step two: ask yourself honestly if you cheat in business, your spouse, your government, your friends, law enforcement agencies. If the answer is yes, you need help before you can help others.

If the answer is no, ask your town fathers how you can make your area a confident community. Your policemen may not be saints, but it's better to work with the law than to watch a crime perpetrated with the detachment of a neutral mouse. If you don't like your police department, agitate for a better one. In some cities, the only way you can tell the good guys from the bad ones is that the badies wear uniforms.

A week ago, J. Edgar Hoover wrote: "Law-abiding citizens and local officials should vigorously oppose concerted attacks against law enforcement and the devious moves to negate local authority and replace it with federal power." He means that you and I should stop being neutral. . . .

JACK ANDERSON

United By Hatred of USA

(Editor's Note: Jack Anderson is now in Korea reporting on the Far Eastern crisis. He will go to Vietnam next.)

SEOUL—The United States probably hasn't heard the last of Kim Il Sung, the fat-faced dictator of North Korea who plunged the world into a new crisis by seizing one of America's most secret and sensitive ships, the Pueblo. He is described in intelligence reports here as a megalomaniac, obsessed with hatred of the USA. Those who have watched his behavior closely say he is frustrated over his inability to unify all Korea under his rule. For this failure, of course, he blames the United States.

This means he can be expected to strike again—when he decides he can get away with it. But like all megalomaniacs, he has shown a tendency to exaggerate his importance and miscalculate his power. His next blow, therefore, may again be irresponsibly dangerous, such as a second front across the 38th parallel. It was to pick up information regarding such a move that the USS Pueblo was hovering off the North Korean coast.

Meanwhile, Kim has called upon his communist allies around the world to strike blows at the United States, as part of his proposed worldwide strategy to split up American forces. "We must tie the United States up wherever it puts its feet," he appealed recently over Pyongyang radio, "so that it cannot move around freely."

The most likely response would come from Cuba's Fidel Castro, who has developed a special bond with Kim Il Sung. The two comic-opera communist czars have become ideological soul mates.

Inside the communist world, the North Korean-Cuban ties have become as close as those that bind Red China and Albania. Kim and Castro are united by their common predicament, half a world apart. Both burn with revolutionary ardor, yet both have botched the job of governing. Both are stimulated by the belligerent language of Peking, but both are hamstrung by economic agreements with Moscow.

The strongest bond of all is their common hatred for the United States.

Typically, Kim Il Sung has given his people more propaganda than progress. He has tried to rally them behind what he likes to call his "Flying Horse" program for building a glorious nation. The Flying Horse is supposed to charge ahead at a faster pace than all others. Unhappy for the weary, overworked North Korean people, the Flying Horse has never made it past the first lap.

The astonishing dimensions of his failure are described in an intelligence report made available to this column.

"Kim Il Sung's economy," declares the report, "has declined dramatically over the last few years, primarily because of a drop in the growth of industrial production."

TOM WICKER

Luncheon at the Rotary Club

CLAREMONT, N. H.—This is an apt state for Sen. Eugene McCarthy's kind of campaigning. Not far from here, along one of the narrow roads that thread New Hampshire's hills, an old white clapboard house has been restored and painted and a witty weekend resident has placed a sign out front that reads: "The Old Values."

That is the kind of rebuke that Gene McCarthy might make to those who talk glibly about getting back to an earlier, simpler way of life that New England somehow is supposed to exemplify. In this postcard state with its frozen lakes and the huts of fishermen standing blackly on the ice, it is too easy to believe that there really are old values to which we all go back. It is something about the farms, the hills, the white churches in their serenity.

In fact, most of the old villages with their church steeples and their beautifully proportioned white houses and their empty red brick mills are angling for tourists and skiers, these days, and the garish supermarkets and sprawling motels with their bleak parking lots lie on the land like a pox; the birch-white hills, tinged with the faint rose of sunlight on the winter leaves, rise above polluted streams, intrusive highways and the creeping urban litter of the 20th Century.

Still, men have to believe something and no doubt that was why there seemed to be a special quality at the luncheon of the Rotary Club of Claremont in the Hotel Moody here the other day. Beneath the four glass chandeliers and the stained-glass panels of the windows, the Rotarians had gathered to hear Sen. McCarthy, who is running for president in the New Hampshire Democratic primary.

The first thing that happened was that President Rodney Brock ordered the television cameras out of the room. He explained that his club was non-political, that Sen. McCarthy had come to discuss public affairs, not politics, and that he was not going to have the club meeting exploited either for television or politics.

A solidly built man, with a quick nervous smile and sparse, sandy hair, President Brock encountered enough argument to make his chin tremble with tension. But he stood by his simple defiance of the television networks, which is something no president of the United States ever has been known to do, and in the end, the cameras were packed up and taken out.

After that, the club sang "L'il Liza Jane" and "Smile, and The World Smiles With You," conducted its regular business, and settled back to hear McCarthy. Apparently untroubled by the absence of television, before which most politicians bow and scrape like valets, the senator spoke in his relaxed manner and with his corrosive wit ("We don't declare war any more, we declare national defense") and gave the Rotarians — if not much of a show, by Ronald Reagan standards — a clear picture of himself.

It was a picture of a man who had set out to discuss what he called "two or three questions of vital importance" and who was deeply in earnest about the need for the nation to "turn aside from the war in order to attend to the most pressing problem at home" — which he defined as the rebellion of Negroes against any longer being "a kind of colonial people in our own country."

He was unemotional, undramatic and nothing about his speech or his manner was hoked up for cheap applause or enthusiasm. He even treated his audience as though it would understand his points and allusions and respond sensibly to his ideas. He said what he had to say, with some eloquence but no particular flourish, and then he sat down.

It is possible that Rodney Brock was legally off-base in turning out the cameras, and it is possible that Gene McCarthy is wrong in his stand on the war. Some might question Brock's judgment and others challenge McCarthy's motives, but during luncheon at the Rotary Club, nobody could accuse either of showing an image rather than a self.

That is probably not good politics; all the pros will tell you that. But in an age when the image is the idol, the old values are inspected by avid tourists, and the flagrant falsities and pretensions of American life deride verity, two men stubbornly being themselves must be worth something.

SYLVIA PORTER

Planning For T-Day

One Washington theory is that the Viet Cong's savage offensive represents a last desperate thrust which will fail and which will then lead to negotiations. Try for a moment to believe it and to imagine that hostilities in Vietnam cease a few months from now.

What would T-Day (Termination Day in Defense Department lingo) mean to the U.S. economy? Several highly significant and to my knowledge, hitherto unpublished estimates on this are buried on pages 89-91 of the Council of Economic Advisers' annual report, released last week. The points made should reassure those of you who fear there would be a sharp slash in today's $25 billion a year spending in Southeast Asia and a resulting slump in our economy.

Of course, it would be nonsense to pretend that substantial cutbacks in war spending would not raise problems; they would. Moreover, as the CEA says, "the reconversion process will be complicated by the uneven impact of the current defense effort upon various industries, geographical areas, and types of manpower."

Against this background, a first key point made by the CEA is that after hostilities end it would take a full 18 months to reduce defense outlays to the level prevailing in 1963-65—"as rapid a phasing down as could be reasonably expected on the basis of past experience." The 1963-65 level is "only an assumption, not a statement of policy or a prediction," cautions the CEA, but the council surely wouldn't make this "assumption" unless it believed it was valid. So let us accept the assumption as a high-level prediction.

In this stretched-out 18-month period, the armed forces might be reduced by 900,000 to 2,600,000 and defense spending might be cut by $15 billion.

A quarter to a third of the discharged veterans would go back to school. Since our job markets currently absorb about 1,500,000 new job seekers a year, an additional 400,000 a year for a while "should not pose an insuperable problem if total demand is strong." As for the $15 billion reduction in defense outlays over the 18 months, "the freed resources would become available for civilian use." Also, how big the cutback would be would depend on "the nature of the peace arrangement" and other "many dimensions."

Now, how to keep the economy strong?

Immediately required would be tax reductions which, estimates the CEA, might total more than $30 billion over the 18 months.

Progress again could be made on "urgent social programs." Among the areas: improvements in education opportunities, extension of health programs, more adequate housing, control of air and water pollution, highway safety, elimination of urban blight, the development of low-cost rapid transit.

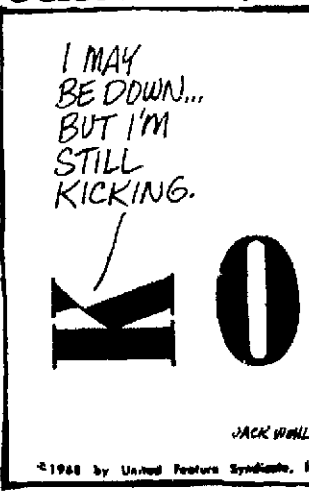

Finally, monetary (credit) policy again would become stimulative. A return to readily available and less expensive credit "would actively encourage investment spending in the private sector and assure a vigorous expansion of housing construction."

Both on and between the lines of the CEA analysis are implications which can be simply stated. Specifically: + We will not suddenly slash war manpower, materials or money. Cutbacks will be gradual; 18 months is a long time. + Cutbacks would be only to the 1963-65 levels preceding the destructive escalation which has been at the heart of our inflation-tight money-balance of payments problem.

+ Cutbacks might be even more modest, depending on the peace arrangement and our other commitments in the world.

+ We have quite an array of prosperity weapons in the tax-credit-public spending arsenal. + Even at this black moment of nightmares, we are actively preparing for the dawn of T-Day.

'Getting Out the Word'

HARRISBURG — Columnist's Notebook:

AREAS OF AGREEMENT — Both Republican and Democratic lawmakers seemed to agree on at least two points following Governor Shafer's presentation of his $2 billion-plus General Fund Budget to the Legislature day before yesterday:

(1) — It's a good thing that in this legislative election year His Excellency didn't suggest the possibility of any more new taxes, and (2) — sometime, somehow the spiraling trend of inflationary budgets is going to have to stop.

The general consensus seemed to be that there would be little if any budgetary trimming this year — not that anti-administration Democrats wouldn't like to see the budget whittled, but the bald fact is administration Republicans expect to have adequate strength after the April 23 primary special elections to move the budgetary tome on their own, speedily and hastily.

GETTING OUT THE WORD — Ex-Navyman Raymond Philip Shafer was determined that as many hands as possible on his ship of state "get the word" regarding his record-breaking budget for Pennsylvania's taxpayers. The result: a few new wrinkles were developed.

Historically newsmen comprising the Capitol Hill Press Corps have been the only ones privy to pre-budgetary briefings, but this year "skipper"

Shafer decreed otherwise. This year for the first time invitations were sent to newspaper editors throughout the state to join in the budget briefing Tuesday night — with about a score accepting the invitation.

As one gubernatorial aide expressed it: "We're trying to get the budget picture across as thoroughly and completely as possible."

Another "first": Cabinet members were invited to the briefing.

Also in the works: a half-hour television "show" to be released in a week or so, detailing the budget and what it means to Pennsylvania's great society as a whole and individually.

As for the $2 billion tome itself, Pennsylvania's taxpaying braves perhaps may find some solace from the fact that when California's Governor Reagan handed his fiscal document to his Legislature this week, it was a $5.7 billion shocker!

QUIP OF THE WEEK — Pennsylvania's Constitutional Convention has been having its high and low moments during deliberations the past several weeks but even the lowly (or highly) groundhog got into the picture the other day.

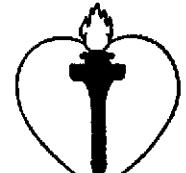

Noting that the Quarryville Groundhog down in Lancaster County didn't see his shadow on Groundhog Day last week (foggy, overcast and what-not down there) while the Punxsutawney Groundhog up in sunny Jefferson County did indeed see his shadow, Convention Delegate Hugh Forster was prompted to observe:

"Apparently we have local options in local weather as well as local government!"

FORFEIT COSTS VICTORY

Eagle Matmen Edged 32-28 by Smethport

YOUNGVILLE — Forfeiting the heavyweight match has cost Youngsville High's wrestling team points all season, but last night it cost the Eagles their first victory.

Visiting Smethport trailed the Red and White matmen, 23-25 after the first eleven matches, but when the host team was again unable to field a heavyweight, the Hubbers had an easy six points and 32-28 triumph.

If nothing else, it was a moral win for the Eagles, who had fallen to Smethport by a 38-18 score in an earlier meeting.

Each team won six matches, but the Hubbers' margin of five pins and the forfeit to four falls and two decisions registered by the Eagles made the difference.

Smethport bolted to an early 11-0 lead when Saez stretched Youngsville's Bob Sedlak after 1:32 of the opening whistle and DuPont nailed Ed Coons of the Eagles in the second period.

Max Collins scored first-team points for Youngsville with a first period pin over L. Hagg at 1:12 and Rick Blakeslee knotted it at 1:41 by dumping Murphy in the second stanza of the 120-pound match.

The Eagles took the lead for the first time—it changed hands five times—on a 9-6 decision by Phil Holcomb over Hubber

Corry Trips Warren's Swim Squad

CORRY—Corry High handed Warren Area High School's swimming team its fifth straight setback here last night, 64-31. The Dragon tankers took only three first places, but two were on record performances. Scott Daelhausen set a new WAHS mark in the 100-yard butterfly with a 1:07.4 clocking. Mark Schaeffer accounted for the third first place, turning the 400-yard freestyle in 4:55.4. Results of last night's meet were as follows:

127-pounder Burdick. Lent regained the advantage for the Hubbers at 1:33 by pinning John Etter after 32 seconds of the start of the third period, then Youngsville surged ahead, 19-16, when Eagle 138-pounder Larry Maynard put Nichols away midway through the last stanza.

Beyler pinned George Sveda at 1:45, and Smethport held a 21-19 edge. At 1:54, Youngsville's John Anthony whitewashed Hagg, 13-0, giving the Eagles a slim 22-21 margin.

Ed Lawrence scored the Eagles' final team points and the quickest fall of the night at 1:65, needing only 29 seconds to dispatch Slugga of the Hubbers. The win gave Youngsville its biggest lead, 23-21.

It was all over for the Red & White, however, when Miller pinned Eagle 180-pounder Ted Taydus with 48 seconds left in the second period.

The Hubbers' Lafferty had his hand raised for forfeit points and the victory.

The Eagles travel to Southwestern, N.Y. High School on Tuesday for their dual match of the season. The New York State team is 10-0 and has clinched the Southern Tier Conference title.

FINAL DUAL MATCH FOR BOTH

Dragon, Knight Wrestlers Host New Yorkers Tonite

Two county high school wrestling squads host New York State opponents tonight. Jamestown's Red Raiders invade the Warren Area High School gym and Eisenhower entertains Southern Tier Conference for Maple Grove.

It's the final dual match for the season for both teams. Head Coach Mike Weber and Don Johns will attend the Section IV seeding meeting at Oil City on Sunday in preparation for next weekend's tourney.

Tonight is Parent's Night in the WAHS gym and the Hal Miller Trophy will be awarded to the year's outstanding Dragon wrestler decided by vote of the matmen and coaches prior to the varsity match.

Nominated for the award presented annually by "Bunky" Froman were seniors Steve Jones, Darrell Pusateri and Doug Sorenson and junior Lee Bryan.

Coached by Norm Thomas, Jamestown has a six wins, four losses record, and three of the defeats were to Pennsylvania teams. The Raiders fell to North East, Harborcreek and Corry, then were whipped by undefeated Southwestern on Tuesday, 30-11. Corry, the only mutual foe, overpowered the Raiders by a 39-8 score.

Victories for the Jintowners were over Westfield, Maple Grove, Pine Valley, Cassadaga Valley, Falconer and Salamanca, all New York State teams.

They competed in two tournaments, placing fifth in an eight-team event at Girard and last in Warren's holiday tourney.

Warren's 6-7 cager, Bob Burlingame, moved back into first place on the county scoring chart last week by whizzing past former leader Wayne Swanson by 24 points. Burlingame has chased Swanson since the first of the year, with the Wolverine cager leading by as much as 29 points at one time.

The Knight scored 32 points against Tidoute, giving him the 46 point difference over his previous high.

The entire Sheffield squad fell this week in county scoring as they were idle Tuesday night while the rest of the county teams played. Sheffield's Jeff Scallise dropped from third spot to fifth place. He was able to net only four points against the tough Brockway squad last Friday.

Four County Quintets See Action Tonight, Dragons at Rocky Grove

Tonight's county high school basketball schedule shows three league tilts, one non-league game, and one squad taking it easy for the night. Warren will travel to Rocky Grove in Section II play, while the Upper Allegheny Valley League slates Eisenhower at East Forest and Spartansburg at Tidoute. Sheffield's Wolverines will meet Elk County Christian for an independent contest on the Crusader hardwood. The Youngsville Eagles are taking a well-deserved rest this evening.

Coach Joe Shantz released his starting lineup with only one major change. Shantz has added senior Rick Nasman to the tipoff squad to replace Dave Cobb. According to Shantz, "Nasman has looked pretty good the last four or five ball games and I'm going to give him his chance."

The Blue and White mentor will also start with brothers Dan and Ed O'Neil. Ed carries a 13.1 average for the Dragons and Dan has averaged over ten points a game. Dan Krumm and Randy Jones make up the rest of the Dragon tipoff squad.

The Dragons will again have to fear Joe Acker, John Boughner and Tony Noll. The trio accounted for all but 14 of the Orioles' final 59 points in the first contest. Acker was high for Rocky Grove, netting nine field goals and four foul points for a 20 point total.

The Dragons' third place standing in Section II would be jeopardized by a loss to Rocky Grove. The Orioles stand on the bottom of Section II with a 3-6 record, while Warren carries a 5-4 slate.

The Orioles will hold the home court advantage, a bad sign for the Dragons who have failed to win on the road in Section II. Rocky Grove will definitely be "up" to "down" the team who broke its winning streak and started the Oriole squad on a downhill plunge.

Starting times are 8:30 for the junior varsity and 8 p.m. for the varsity.

Probable varsity lineups for both matches will be as follows:

The Orioles carried a nine-game winning streak into their contest with the Blue and White last January and Warren made short work of their unbeaten slate by handing the stunned visitors a 70-59 defeat.

WEATHER PLAGUES OUTDOOR EVENTS

Dazzling Peggy Fleming Whirls Closer to Medal

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — While bizarre weather plagued outdoor Olympic events, Peggy Fleming—the world's top ice ballerina—stayed indoors Thursday and whirled to a virtually unbeatable lead in women's figure skating.

Skier Billy Kidd, meanwhile, trudged out on the slopes in nearby Chamrousse to test his troublesome left ankle in the men's downhill race but was sent back indoors for at least one more day of rest by high winds, fog and a snow storm that forced postponement of the race.

"The ankle feels pretty good," the Stowe, Vt. flash said. "I've got it taped. I'll be ready to go whenever they hold the race."

Kidd sprained his ankle Wednesday. The first two runs in the luge singles also were called off after officials decided mild weather at Villard-de-Lans had made the ice track too soft.

Both events were scheduled for Friday, weather permitting.

Nothing bothered Miss Fleming, however. The 19-year-old world champion from Colorado Springs, Colo., increased her 30.4-point lead to 77.2 as she dazzled judges and spectators in the last three of the five compulsory figures.

Even more important, she received an ordinal score of nine, which is perfect for the compulsory segment of the event, which counts for 60 per cent of the total score. Saturday's free skating will determine the other 40 per cent.

Final results are based on ordinals, which actually are places that judges award the skaters. In other words, each of the nine judges rated Miss Fleming first so her ordinal total is nine.

"Barring accidents, the gold medal is in the bag," said an elated Carlo Fassi, Peggy's trainer.

If, indeed, the pretty brunette with long black eyelashes wins the gold, it will be the first for the United States in the event since Carol Heiss brought it home in 1960.

The Americans also have a chance for the bronze medal. East Germany's Gabriele Seyfert is solidly in second place, but Albertine Noyes of Arlington, Mass., is in a three-way spin for third with Beatrix Schuba of Austria and Hana Maskova of Czechoslovakia.

The 19-year-old New York University student was in fourth place after the compulsory figures with an ordinal score of 39, eight behind Miss Schuba and two ahead of Miss Maskova. Janet Lynn, 14, of Rockford, Ill., is out of the running in 13th place with 135.

In total points, Miss Fleming has 1,062.1 to 984.9 for Miss Seyfert, 960 for Miss Schuba, 941.9 for Miss Noyes and 943.2 for Miss Maskova. Miss Lynn, the youngest member of the U.S. Olympic squad, has 840.7.

Conditions must be as close to perfect as possible for luge races because it is a dangerous sport. A competitor races down the track, lying almost flat on his back on his luge, which resembles a child's sled. A luge is much heavier than a child's sled—it weighs 44 pounds—but it also is much lighter than the 400-pound bobsled.

Nine-time world champion Eugenio Monti of Italy and brakeman Luciano De Paolis swept into the lead on the first two runs of the two-man bobsled competition as the U.S. teams held seventh and 10th positions.

The last two runs are scheduled for Friday night.

Monti and De Paolis covered the 1,500-meter course in a track record one minute, 10.13 seconds on the first run and then turned in a 1:10.72 clocking for a total 2:20.85.

Paul Lamey of Manchester, N.H., and Bob Huscher of New York took seventh in 2:22.84 after split times of 1:11.30 and 1:11.54. Howard Clifton of Elmore, N.Y., and Michael Luce of Keene Valley, N.Y., were 10th in the field of 22 sleds, finishing in 1:12.10 and 1:12.18 for a 2:24.28 total.

Bob Timmons Quits As Pitt Cage Coach

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Timmons, under pressure and struggling through a fourth straight losing season, resigned Thursday as basketball coach at the University of Pittsburgh.

Timmons, whose teams have lost 64 of their last 87 games, said he decided before the season this would be his last year.

But Athletic Director Frank Carver, who insisted the coach's decision was his own, said Timmons didn't tell him he was bowing out until Thursday morning.

"Bob and I have talked this over at various times over the last couple of years," Carver said. "I thought that if he wanted to, he should have a chance to step out. I told Bob there's a job in our department anytime he wanted to get out of coaching."

Despite the denials, reliable sources reported that Carver decided before the season Timmons would have to go if he didn't produce a winner, and Pitt's record is 5-10. His last three seasons were 7-16, 5-17, and 6-19.

Timmons, 55, a former assistant football coach who is in his 15th season on the basketball job, cited what he termed "pressures and burdens" in announcing his resignation.

"The pressures and burdens brought about by big-time intercollegiate athletics, to me, aren't worth it now," Timmons said. "I think the change will benefit the basketball program at Pitt and I know it will benefit me."

Carver said he hadn't given any thought to a possible successor but Timmons recommended his freshman assistant, Tim Gargich.

Timmons, whose overall record is 172-184, will finish out

Maravich Opens Scoring Margin

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Maravich has boosted his average to 45.2 points in his drive for the major college basketball scoring record.

The 6-foot-5 sophomore from Louisiana State collected 98 points in two games last week and seems a clinch to surpass the average of 41.7 set by Furman's Frank Selvy in 1954.

Calvin Murphy, the springy little sophomore from Niagara held second with his 39.6 mark with the Big E, Elvin Hayes of Houston, third with 34.2.

Statistics through games of Feb. 3 were released Thursday by the National Collegiate Sports Services.

Giants Sign Marichal To Contract

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Juan Marichal, still looked to as the mainstay of the San Francisco Giants and a big plus toward their National League pennant hopes, agreed Thursday to pitch a second season for a reported $100,000.

The big righthander also agreed to fly into San Francisco in a week or 10 days to sign, and to report for baths and conditioning exercises a week ahead of spring training in Arizona.

With Marichal satisfied, the Giants have signed 21 players, including all of their stars and their pitching big four: Marichal, 14-10 last season; Mike McCormick, 22-10; Ray Sadecki, 12-6; and Ray Perry, 15-17.

They also have signed Willie Mays, Willie McCovey and virtually every key player except outfielder Jesus Alou, from whom they expect a signed pact soon.

Marichal, from his home in Santo Domingo, sounded relaxed and happy in a telephone chat with Giants Vice President Charles S. Feeney.

Juan said he is completely satisfied with his contract, is in top condition and anxious to begin work. He made no mention of the aches and pains which he suffered much of last season because of repeated injuries.

The Giants hope the 30-year-old, high-kicking pitcher will return to his superb 1963-64 form. He won 93 games and lost only 35 in those four 21-game-or-better winning years. His pay jumped from $40,000 to $100,000 in that time, marked by two long holdouts.

Hospital Costs Increase 21 Per Cent

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—Ralph S. Smith, president of Blue Cross of Northeastern Pennsylvania, said Thursday area hospital costs in the first 10 months of 1967 increased 21 per cent over the preceding year.

Smith said, however, he expects the increase to level off before David O. Maxwell, state insurance commissioner, considering a rate increase for the health insurance plan.

Reasons for the increases, said Smith, were higher labor costs, upgrading of patient care and revision of hospital reimbursement contracts. The latter, he said was brought about by Medicare.

John Bauer, president of the independent association of liquor control board employees, said his 4,000 members are well versed in coverage provided by Blue Cross and other medical health insurance programs.

He said his own feeling was that increased revenue is needed to meet rising costs.

"I feel Blue Cross has presented its case efficiently and we feel that determination concerning a rate increase should be left in the hands of the insurance commissioner and his staff."

Schools Take Dim View Of State Budget Requests

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The heads of two state-related universities expressed dismay Thursday at Gov. Shafer's budget requests for them, while another took a wait-and-see attitude.

When Shafer introduced his proposed $1.98 billion budget Wednesday, he suggested state schools and state-related universities might have to raise tuitions $100 a year. The budget, effective July 1, still must be approved by the Legislature.

Titusville Woman Charged

TITUSVILLE — A Titusville woman has been charged with attempting to obtain property by false pretense, according to information filed in the office of Alderman N. Allen Love.

The information was filed against Mrs. Thelma Warner by the G & H Shop.

The charge alleges that Mrs. Warner illegally purchased merchandise through a charge account which she opened in the name of her half-sister, Miss Minnie Kerr of Grand Valley.

No action has been taken on the complaint since Mrs. Warner is believed to be out of the state.

The schools' requests for increases was trimmed 50 per cent.

Temple University President Paul R. Anderson said tuition may have to be raised and the school may have to "make drastic reductions in services rendered" if the budget is passed as now proposed. Temple is earmarked for $31.4 million this year, up from $28 million last year.

Wesley W. Posvar, chancellor at the University of Pittsburgh, said "a tuition increase would only partly enable us to meet our commitments at Pitt."

Pitt is slated to receive $32 million this year, up from $27.6 million last year.

Posvar said even with the added funds, "the planned expansion of programs such as nursing and other health-related professions would be curtailed, and other economies would be necessary."

Dr. Eric Walker, Pennsylvania State University president, said only, "We are studying Gov. Shafer's budget recommendations very carefully to see what adjustments will be required."

Shafer recommended $59.2 million for Penn State, which received about $48.4 million last year.

Pickets Return in Force To Coal Mine Strike Scene

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pickets returned in force Thursday to the coal mines where last week's five-state strike started.

The company canceled a negotiation session set for Friday and called its men back to work. No one crossed the lines Thursday.

Some 1,450 miners for Bethlehem Steel in Cambria County walked out in sympathy.

There was no immediate word from United Mine Workers officials on whether sympathy walkouts would spread as they did last week, when 84,000 men left their jobs.

But the Ohio Coal Association said 243 union men at the Oglebay Norton Co. mines near Powhatan Point left their jobs to serve as pickets. The association said it didn't know where the men were going.

The 250 pickets who showed up at the Solar Fuel Co. mines in northern Somerset County were orderly. State police said they were using normal patrols.

That was a contrast to the scene two weeks ago when busloads of pickets were arrested for violating a court order limiting pickets to three. The arrests touched off the general strike, which virtually halted production of soft coal in the country for two days.

Clammer B. Berkey Jr., president of Solar Fuel, sent a telegram to Gov. Raymond Shafer calling off a meeting set for Friday in Harrisburg to work on a contract with the union.

He accused the union of breaking the agreement that ended the general strike. He also said, in an interview, that the company would not accept the union's national contract.

State Secretary of Labor and Industry William J. Hart responded by firing off a telegram to Berkey expressing disappointment at his decision to call off the meeting.

"It will indeed be regrettable from every point of view, including that of the Public Interest, if you do not act in accordance with the governor's request to continue meeting until a successful agreement has been reached," Hart said.

He added that he knew of no reason why Berkey should end the negotiations, and said that he has been informed by the UMW that it still plans to meet with him Friday despite Berkey's action.

Joseph Yablonski, head of the union team that had been trying to negotiate a contract, said it was Solar that violated the agreement by sending its men back to work Wednesday. He also charged the company with bad faith in negotiations.

FIRST HONORARY MEMBERSHIP

Jack Henry, president of Pennsylvania State Employees Council (AFL-CIO) is shown presenting the first honorary membership in the Council to William J. Hart, State Secretary of Labor and Industry, last Friday in Harrisburg. Hart, the second individual from Labor to serve as departmental secretary, pledged continued efforts toward improvement in working conditions for state employees and cooperation with the Council's efforts. Pictured, from left are: Henry, Joseph E. Stahlman, council vice president; Hart, John L. Fulek, council secretary and Reuben H. Miller, executive board member.

Con Con Reverses Itself; Freezes Seats in Legislature

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Constitutional Convention reversed itself Thursday and gave preliminary approval to a proposal to freeze the number of legislators at the present 203 in the House and 50 in the Senate.

In a surprise move, the delegates voted 124-15 to delete amendments that would have provided two alternate methods of increasing or decreasing the size of the legislature.

The effect was to return the proposal to its original form as it was reported from the Legislative Apportionment Committee last week.

The proposal, along with another one calling for recreation of a special commission every decade to reapportion the legislature, was submitted for final drafting.

If approved finally, the proposals will be placed on the April 23 primary election ballot along with other convention recommendations in the area of taxation and state finance, local government and the judiciary.

The present constitution, adopted in 1874, provides for 50 Senate seats, but gives the legislature some latitude in determining the number of House seats.

The committee proposal would retain the figure 50 in the constitution and add the figure 203 for the House, which has had 203 members since it was reapportioned by the State Supreme Court in 1966.

The second proposal would provide for the creation of a five-member commission after every decennial census to reapportion House and Senate in conformance with equal population factors. The commission would be composed of the majority and minority leaders of both chambers plus a fifth member, to be selected by the original four.

If the leaders are unable to agree on a fifth member or if they are unable to agree on a reapportionment plan, the matter would be thrown into the hands of the State Supreme Court, as it was two years ago.

The two proposals went to the convention's Style and Drafting Committee after three full days of debate, most of which centered on the amendments ultimately rejected.

One amendment would have authorized the legislature to increase or decrease its size by a two-thirds vote, while the other would have permitted the people to do it through initiative petition and referendum.

Backers of the amendments withdrew their support after former Gov. William W. Scranton, a delegate from Lackawanna County, warned that they were cluttering the constitution.

"If we allow this to go into the final draft, we will not only be a laughing stock, but we will have written the worst provision in any constitution in any state," Scranton said.

Brookville Police

Members of Brookville Council at Tuesday's meeting learned of the "sad-sack" condition of uniforms worn by its seven-man police force. It was reported the police chief, Earl Smith, couldn't go on duty until one of his men returned with his winter hat and jacket. Basic uniforms had been purchased back in 1955 and council was advised that the $100 a year clothing allowance for the full-time men doesn't go very far when a pair of summer trousers cost $22. Some of the men are wearing summer uniforms now and there are only two or three winter jackets.

17 County Units Get Revenues

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau) HARRISBURG—The State Department of Internal Affairs said yesterday that of the 27 eligible taxing units in Warren County, 17 are deriving revenues under terms of Act 481, known familiarly as the "local tax anything law," which in effect permits local subdivisions to tax anything not already taxed by the state.

This was indicated yesterday in a just completed statistical analysis of the use of the 1947-enacted act in political subdivisions in Pennsylvania for the year 1965.

A check with the department shows that in Warren County the per capita was used in 16 cases with revenues amounting to $91,035. This is the breakdown for the county with the name of the taxing political subdivision followed by the amount derived from the per capita tax during 1965:

BOROUGHES — Clarendon, $2230; Sugar Grove, $1695; Tidoute, $2125; Warren, $39,999; Youngsville, $5688.

TOWNSHIPS — Brokenstraw, $3166; Columbus, $3937; Cone-wango, $10,829; Eldred, $1546; Farmington, $2097; Freehold, $2361; Glade, $4611; Pine Grove, $5641; Pittsfield, $3232; Spring Creek, $1164; Triumph, $714.

Southwest Township levies a tax on earned income from which it derived $2594 during 1965, according to department records.

New Appalachian Thruway Efforts Being Expedited

ALTOONA, Pa. (AP)—Citizens of Altoona, celebrating the 100th anniversary of their community, were told by Gov. Shafer Thursday evening that efforts are being stimulated on behalf of the new Appalachian Thruway.

The proposed four-lane thruway would follow the route of 220 from Williamsport through this area and into Maryland.

Children Of Slain Woman Fly to Calif.

CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—Delaware County Court ordered an investigation Thursday into the departure to California of the 10 children of slain Dorothy Trent, 38.

The children flew to Los Angeles Tuesday night apparently, investigators say, to be with the leader of a religious cult said to have been followed by Mrs. Trent.

Judge Francis J. Catania, in ordering the hearing, said the children's "whereabouts are now unaccounted for. I read in the newspaper where they had been taken out of state." He said he wanted the District Attorney's office to find out the circumstances involved.

Aides in the District Attorney's office and Chester police expressed surprise at reports the children left Pennsylvania so soon. Their father, Charles H. Trent, 41, is charged in the shooting death of their mother Tuesday in their Chester home after an argument.

Police said Trent agreed to the California trip because he didn't know what else to do with the children.

Police said the children's flight to California was arranged by a follower of the cult, which paid $780 for the airline tickets.

Detective Sgt. Herbert Wright said two of the children had been charged as material witnesses. The two, Daniel, 15, and Steven, 12, had not been placed under bond, however, Wright said.

Investigators said the children were put on a California-bound plane Tuesday night.

Family Service

The monthly meeting of the board of directors of Family Service and Children's Aid Society will be held in the society office at 1 p.m. Tuesday, February 13.

"Construction of a four-lane limited access route through this county will definitely have far-reaching effects on the industrial and tourist industries," Shafer said at a centennial dinner arranged by the Altoona Chamber of Commerce.

Considering the importance of this route, I have directed the officials in the state's Department of Highways to use every tool at their disposal to step up the efforts on behalf of this Appalachian Thruway.

"Just today in Washington our state and federal economic aid director met for the signing of the contract calling for an impact study to be made which will hopefully confirm the economic effect the proposed Appalachian Thruway will have on Blair County and Pennsylvania."

"I have also been informed that public hearings will begin within the next two weeks in various towns along the route."

Speaking of the $1.89 billion budget he presented to the legislature this week, Shafer enumerated the state services and benefits that accrue to the people of the Altoona area. He said the budget was not a conglomeration of figures, but "a financial document that will chart the course we must be prepared to follow if we desire a future filled with prosperity for all Pennsylvanians."

Blind Woman Bound, Gagged And Robbed

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Blind, 62-year-old Mary Wall recovered Thursday from an hour of torment when she was bound and gagged by intruders and a pillow pressed over her face.

Police said Mrs. Wall, who lives alone, awoke Wednesday night and heard someone in her room.

"Who are you?" she said. "What do you want?"

"Hush," said a man's voice. "Hush. You do what I say and you won't get hurt."

Mrs. Wall told officers the man tied her hands behind her, gagged her and threw a pillow over her face.

She heard another man in another room rummaging through the furniture. The two searched the house and came back an hour later and removed her gag.

She told them where her billfold was hidden. They took it and the $45 inside. Mrs. Wall wasn't hurt.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married for 10 years. We are both aching to have a family but unfortunately nothing happens. I am almost positive my husband is sterile but I have never suggested it to him or anyone else. He has a great deal of pride and this would destroy him. (I had a child by a former marriage so I'm sure I am not at fault). My husband's sister Louise is married to a man I will call Freddie. Freddie looks enough like my husband that they could be twins. Freddie and Louise have a little boy who is a picture of my husband. In fact he resembles my husband more than he resembles his own father. We are both crazy about the child and take him for weekends whenever we can.

The thought occurred to me that the solution to our problem is simple. Why don't I ask Freddie to father my child, strictly for the sake of our marriage? He might be shocked at first but he is a very fine person and I'm sure when I explain the problem in detail he will agree. I'm also sure my husband would not object, but I would not tell him because it would be better for all concerned if he believed the child was his own.

Don't suggest artificial insemination. My love for the child would not be complete if the conception was purely scientific. And please leave the moral aspects out of it. I don't need a sermon.—GISELLA.

Dear Gisella: Asking me to advise you on this matter and suggesting that I leave the moral aspects out of it is like going to a banker for a loan and suggesting that he not mention money.

To borrow your sister-in-law's husband for stud purposes is no way to solve a family problem. It may be a peachy way to create a whole host of new family problems, however, so my advice is forget it, and start talking to the adoption agencies.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wonder how many people recognize themselves in your column. I think I saw myself yesterday. A girl wrote that she works in an office with a nice-looking middle-aged woman who is attractive and well-dressed. But one thing spoils the woman's appearance. She has a moustache.

I am not blind. I know I have a moustache and it bothers me a lot. But I am afraid to use a hair-removing cream because I've heard that once you remove hair it grows back thicker and darker than ever. Is this true?—CONCERNED

Dear Concerned: No, it is not true. This is an oft-repeated myth which has no basis in fact. Some women have abandoned creams in favor of electrolysis because

Pfeifer-Zerbe Wedding Held In Fond du Lac, Wisconsin

Grace Louise Pfeifer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron H. Pfeifer of 69 South Street, Fond du Lac, Wisc., became the bride of Ronald Clifton Zerbe, son of Mrs. Mary Zerbe of 302 Jackson Avenue, Warren, and the late Mr. Clarence Zerbe. The wedding took place on Saturday, January 27, at 1:30 p. m. in the Salem Evangelical United Brethren Church in Fond du Lac. The Rev. Walter Statten officiated at the double ring rites in the presence of one hundred guests.

Wedding music was provided by Miss Lynette Bosin at the organ, and soloist was Miss June Hobby of Chicago, Ill. Escorted on the arm of her father, the bride approached the altar in a bridal gown of white lace over tulle. Styled in an a-line, the long gown had long tapering sleeves, a rounded neckline and chapel train. Her elbow length veil of tulle depended from a beaded crown and she carried a bouquet of white pompons and white tea-roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Priscilla Zerbe of Warren, sister of the groom, wore aquamarine crepe with matching headpiece with veil. The best man was Kenneth Cartwright of Chicago. The mother of the bride chose a green figured coat-dress ensemble and the mother of the groom wore a suit of green and white. Both had corsages of white pompons and yellow tea-roses. A reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church and was attended by the one hundred wedding guests.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Zerbe left for Greenville College, Greenville, Ill., afterwards, Mrs. Zerbe wearing a white wool two-piece dress. Their residence is 421 McAdams St., Greenville, Ill. Both are 1968 graduates of Moody Bible Institute.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by friends and relatives of the bride. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Overbeck of Fond du Lac.

Guests were present at the wedding from Woodstock, Chicago, Ill., Warrsaw, Ind., and Warren, Penna.

Bishop Launches Annual Catholic Charities Drive

His Excellency, the Most Rev. John F. Whealon, Bishop of the Erie Catholic Diocese, told a large and attentive audience Wednesday evening at Sacred Heart Parish, Erie, that, "we expect that every Catholic family and wage-earner in the diocese will be visited during the next few weeks; we want to give everyone the opportunity to help the aged and to support Catholic Charities."

The occasion was a meeting of thirteen parishes in West Erie attended by the special gifts committeemen from these parishes. Eleven such meetings were held throughout the diocese during this week to explain the Charities Campaign to laymen. About three thousand special gifts committeemen attended these meetings.

The Most Rev. Alfred M. Watson, Auxiliary Bishop and pastor of St. Peter Cathedral, Erie, spoke during the meeting at St. John Baptist in East Erie. Bishop Watson thanked everyone for attending and explained that, "meetings will be held weekly till the first week of April for the purpose of instruction and making weekly progress reports."

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Richard F. Fitzgerald, the diocesan coordinator for the Annual Catholic Charities Campaign, speaking at a meeting at St. Bernard's auditorium in Bradford on Wednesday night, told an enthusiastic audience that, "Catholic Charities is everyone's concern; we are our brother's keeper, and the blessings that God has bestowed on us are meant to be shared with our unfortunate brothers. Supporting Catholic Charities is one way of sharing these blessings."

Chairmen in this area for the Catholic Charities drive are: John Hartman for St. Joseph and Dr. Daniel C. Lareau, Holy Redeemer, Warren; Norge Luvison for St. Luke, Youngsville; Anthony Pollmene for St. Clara; St. Anthony Churches, Clarendon and Sheffield; Roger Gill for St. John, Tidloute; Maynard Boeckman for St. Callistus, Kane; Miss Lillian Rich for St. Francis of Assisi and William Roy Healey for St. Bernard, Bradford; Frank Langnese for Our Mother of Perpetual Help, Lewis Run.

The first annual Catholic Charities campaign has a minimum goal of $1,250,000. New residences for the aged will be built in Sharon and DuBois, and a new section will be built at St. Mary's Home for the Aged in Erie. A home will be purchased in Crawford County for unmarried expectant mothers. The social services of Catholic Charities will be expanded to provide more professionally trained case workers to assist in marriage counseling, alcoholism, and other family-disturbing problems.

The total cost of these programs amounts to $4,475,000.

Music Groups For Girls Sponsored By Philomel

One of the most ambitious and continuing efforts of the Philomel Music Club is their sponsorship of the Junior Philomel and Little Bach music clubs. The purpose of the two clubs for the school set is to foster interest in fine music, provide an opportunity for members to perform and to develop good listening habits.

lection of the player's choice.

The theme of the Little Bach meeting held on Wednesday, January 31, was sacred music. Mrs. Lange, one of the counselors of the group, presented a talk on the subject and Group "B" played for the meeting. The following members performed:

Mary Jo Bonavita, "Ave Maria" by Schubert; Sally Calderwood "Dedication" by Bartok; Stacy Calderwood "Andante" by Sostrenuto; Liz Eaton "Austria" by Haydn and a selection by Hwisely; Jean Newmaker "Largo" by Handel; Barbara O'Connor "At Church" by Tchaikovsky; Kris Robertson "Choral" by Schumann; Becky Roop "Consolation" by Mendelssohn; and Sonya Thein "The Heavens Are Telling" by Beethoven.

The clubs also provide an opportunity for all girls in Warren who are studying music to meet socially in an atmosphere of mutual interests.

The Little Bach Club is comprised of girls who will enter, or are already attending, Beatty Junior High School. The piano audition requirements for prospective members are: one selection by J. S. Bach; a movement of a sonatina; and a selection of the player's choice.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Five of ♠.
Despite encountering unfavorable distribution on the deal, South could nevertheless have salvaged his three no trump contract by taking steps in advance to provide against adversity.

West opened the five of hearts and East put up the queen, dislodging declarer's king. The club finesse was taken next and East was in with the king. The heart continuation was ducked and then West led a third round to clear the suit.

The dummy's clubs were run, on which West discarded a spade and a diamond. Inasmuch as South had only eight tricks available—four clubs, two hearts and one in each of the other suits, he led the queen of diamonds for a finesse.

West won the trick with the king and cashed out his hearts to defeat the contract.

South was admittedly the victim of bad luck in finding both kings offside; however, he could have taken steps to avert misfortune by planning his sequence of plays ahead of time. The only holding that threatens his contract is finding West with five hearts as well as the king of diamonds for a potential entry card.

By playing diamonds first, South has time to develop his ninth trick safely. It is suggested that he lead a small diamond from his hand at trick two. If West goes up with the king and continues hearts, declarer holds up until the third round. Now, when the club finesse loses, East has no hearts to return and South cashes out when he regains the lead.

If West ducks when the diamond is led at trick two, declarer puts up the queen from dummy and, with the diamond safely in, he can transfer his attentions to clubs. In the interests of safety, the finesse is abandoned and a small club is led from dummy. East is in with the king and, when he returns a heart, South puts up the ace and runs for cover with his nine tricks.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1968

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Wholesale conversion to your opinions won't exist, but where you cooperate sensibly, you will receive like treatment. Self-discipline stressed.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Important now: Common sense, logical analysis, calm interrogation. Business and occupational matters highly favored. Don't waste time on regrets.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Determine distances efforts must stretch to cover ground necessary. You may be tempted to press too much into this day—trying to cover more than is possible. DON'T!

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—A tabulation of "musts" may uncover a weak schedule, one that could be pepped up to show your capacities to better advantage.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Avoid useless arguing and an unbending attitude. Strive to keep things smooth, on time and in order. The early beginning must have a steadfast follow-up.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—There will be no basic threat to your independence or achievement if you maintain consistency in things that require FIRST attention. Put pleasure AFTER duty.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Planetary influences indicate some unexpected changes. Do not be dismayed. They should prove beneficial in the long run.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Note signals, trends. Where can YOU assist, devise a re-doing, or just lend that much-needed helping hand? This could be a big day!

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Create a climate of both eagerness and stability—the one to spur your ambition, the other to keep you on an even course. Produce YOUR quota before you count another's.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—This is a day for making top-ranking gains, if you begin and stay with the best, displaying your capabilities effectively. Avoid anxiety.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—If you would succeed at WHATEVER you do, begin by putting aside worry and doubts. They hinder in every way. New opportunities indicated. Seek!

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—You may encounter some brash talkers and see some reckless doings, but you need not become involved. Tend to your own activities and build concrete gains.

YOU BORN TODAY are ambitious and enterprising, and can reach the loftiest of positions even from most humble beginnings. Once you set your sails for a top goal, little can stop you from attaining it if you stay on the track and stress quality rather than quantity. Sometimes hard-hitting, always enthusiastic for the good things, a defender of the weak, you make excellent doctors, specialists, companions, secretaries, pioneers and writers. How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases. STRESS INCONTINENCE

Incontinence is involuntary loss of bladder control with leakage of urine. It is more common in women and the type caused by stress usually is the result of childbirth injuries. The muscles and other pelvic tissues have stretched to such an extent that the opening to the bladder no longer is secure.

Stress incontinence is loss of urinary control whenever intra-abdominal pressure is increased such as when coughing, laughing, or sneezing. It is more likely to occur among obese women and may be more noticeable when lifting or wearing a tight girdle.

Incontinence may be persistent or transient. Some are bothered only during menstruation. Now and then it develops after the menopause when the tissues tend to atrophy or shrink. When the leakage is mild, it is easily controlled with a pad.

Systematic pelvic muscle exercises help some sufferers. The muscles of the pelvic floor are contracted 80 to 100 times a day. The effectiveness of the exercise is tested by trying to check the flow of the urine suddenly while voiding. Electrical stimulation of the pelvic muscles has also been used with some success. But surgery is necessary when the condition is marked and not improved by exercise. Estrogen hormones are useful when incontinence develops after the change of life.

Infection of the bladder opening is a common cause of incontinence. Interference with the nerve supply to the organ also leads to the disturbance. In some instances, the bladder does not empty properly and the overflow escapes after the organ is full. TOMORROW: Epizootic in England. Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

DIAGNOSING EMOTIONAL DISORDERS

S. L. writes: We read about neurotics and emotional disorders but few of us know how the physician arrives at a diagnosis. Is the behavior of the individual a determining factor? It would help knowing what to look for in someone who might need special care before it is too late.

REPLY
Emotional states such as neuroses are psychoneuroses usually are reflected in the sufferer's mood. Some people become nervous, tense and irritable. Others are extremely quiet and withdrawn. Still others trust no one, even members of the immediate family. Now and then emotional upheavals are followed by changes in the action of certain organs such as the heart, stomach, intestine, and scalp muscles. We have a leaflet on neurotic tendencies which can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

FAST GROWING BEARD
G. J. writes: I have a super 5 o'clock shadow. Is there any drug that would keep down the growth? REPLY

You could take estrogens, but the cure might be worse than the disease. I advise you to shave twice a day if you are planning an evening out.

OVLATION BY ONE OVARY
D. S. writes: When a woman has an ovary removed does this mean that ovulation takes place every other month? REPLY

No, when one ovary is removed the other does the work of two.

Allegheny Scout Council To Cut Browse Near Here

Over 250 boy scouts and their troop leaders from the Allegheny Council will be guests of the Tidioute area from Friday night Feb. 23 to Sunday p.m. Feb. 25.

Hosts for the scouts will be area game wardens in cooperation with the Tidioute Area Chamber of Commerce. The boys, who are members of a council comprising over 36,000 scouts, are coming here to cut browse on Game Lands No. 86, and to get first hand experience in tracking, spotting wild game and hunting for beaver dams. They will be doing their own cooking and will sleep in various camps in the local area and in Forest County which are being turned over for their use.

Since most of the group will be arriving late Friday night in private cars, two check-in stations are to be set up. The Fish Commission office in Tionesta will handle scouts who will be staying in Forest County. Latimer's Esso Station on Rte. 62 in Limestone Twp., will take care of those staying in the Tidioute area. Members of the local Chamber of Commerce and volunteers have agreed to be on hand to serve as guides to the various camps.

At 9:30 Sat. Feb. 24th, game wardens, scouts and leaders will meet at the gameland shed on the old Tidioute-Warren road about three miles above Tidioute. Here, the scouts will be divided into groups of about 50 each for browse cutting.

John Kriz, Fairview, Pa., game biologist of the research dept., Pennsylvania Game Commission, will dissect a poorly fed deer at the shed at 2:30 p.m. to demonstrate to the scouts the result of insufficient browse. For the remainder of the evening the scouts will be free to further explore the gamelands.

Arrangements are presently being made with the local churches so the scouts may attend Sunday services.

Don Farr, local game warden, who is spear-heading this huge undertaking, reported that plans were almost completed at a meeting he called Sat. Feb. 3 at 11 a.m. in the fire hall, present and assisting with arrangements were: game wardens Cecil Tombs, Tionesta; Duane Gross, Marienville; David Titus, Warren; and William Overturn, Youngsville. Also Donald Kleinsteiver, president, Tidioute Area Chamber of Commerce; Allegheny scout executives and Roger Latham, Outdoor Editor, The Pittsburgh Press.

Fishing Good In Allegheny

Hal Drake of Morrison Hill road, Tidioute found fishing good at the mouth of Magee Run last week. Standing on the ice and fishing with a jig, he landed four red-tailed suckers ranging in length from 22 to 26 inches and weighing from 5 1/2 to 7 pounds.

Drake said he was particularly interested in catching carp, but in spite of two or three nibbles he couldn't pull one over the edge of the ice. However he did see a large one which had been caught and discarded on the river bank. It was still living when he left.

We learned that later it was retrieved by a fish fancier, and after cleaning it is now stored in his freezer for future enjoyment.

Tidioute Lions Down Tionesta

The mighty Tionesta Lions roared into town last Saturday night expecting to win an easy victory over our native Lions in a cage game in the school gym at 7:30 p.m. But before a capacity audience, our local club licked its chops with an easy victory of 46 to 34.

The down-river cubs took their defeat in stride, but before departing, challenged the victors to a return game, which will take place at West Forest gym in Tionesta, Saturday, Feb. 17 at 8 p.m. However, if the Tionesta Lions play no better than they did against their local townsmen in a recent clash that ended in a 73 to 58 defeat at the hands of the "Hillbillies," our native sons may be licking their chops again.

Coached by Chuck Caughlin, the Tidioute team included: Jim Bodamer, Harold Brocklehurst, Paul Craft, Herman Knight, Jr., Dick Knight, Bob Schwab, Lou Schwab, Melvin Speicher, George Sveda and Ronnie Weller. Gary Dreihaupt, coach for Tionesta, brought Tom Allen, Curtis Furnish, Frank Kaputa, Jack Kunselman, Ronald Bechtel and Hugh Mullin for his lineup.

High scorers were Bodamer, Tidioute 12 pts.; Mullin 15 and Dreihaupt 14, Tionesta.

Tidioute Woman
Busy Knitting

The meeting day and time are alternated each week, with a morning meeting held at 10 a.m. Wed. Feb. 7 this week. Next week the group will meet Mon. Feb. 12 at 7 p.m. This type of schedule makes it possible for the women to arrange their work so they can choose the day and time most convenient for them.
